ASSESSMENT: I Can statements for higher and lower achievers are included in the lesson plans for formative assessment. The I Can statements below are based on the eight level scale of the Non Statutory National Framework for Religious Education. Teachers are encouraged to refer to these at the end of each unit and make a summative assessment of the level pupils are working at. This information can be used by the class teacher for end of year reporting to parents and by the RE coordinator for monitoring the effectiveness of pupils' learning in RE as part of the school's ongoing self-evaluation.

1. BEFORE THE REGISTER

Christopher. It's my baby brother's baptism on Sunday.

Maryam. What happens at a baptism?

Christopher. It's when we take the baby to church, all dressed in white and the priest will bless him and splash water on his head and give him his name. Joseph.

Judith. Joseph? That's like in our Hebrew Bible. Joseph and the coat of many colours.

Christopher. And Joseph the father of Jesus – in our Bible.

Maryam. Do you always have names from the Bible?

Christopher. No. I don't think there's a Christopher in the Bible. But there's a Saint Christopher. He's supposed to protect people when they go on journeys.

Judith. Let's think who there is in our class who's got a 'Bible' name. There's Sarah, Naomi, Ezekiel, Adam... what about Clare?

Christopher. Not sure. But James is one and Anna and the new boy is Moses isn't he? My Mum's Christian name is Mary; that's the name of Jesus' mother. What's your Mum's Christian name, Simran?

Simran. Her first name is Sukhvinder. But it's not a Christian name. Think about it. Only Christians can have Christian names!

Christopher. I never thought of that before! I guess you're right. Are your names from your Bible or whatever you call it?

Simran. Our holy book is called the Guru Granth Sahib.

Olivia. I didn't know that. But tell me something else. You know Satvir in class 2B? Well how come he's a boy and there's that girl in 3T and she's called Satvir too?

Simran. That's just how it is. All Sikh names can be for girls or boys. Why not when you think about it?

Christopher. Actually a few of our names are the same too. Like Lesley can be for a girl or a boy and Chris can be short for Christopher or Christine.

Baptism (or christening) is the joyful ceremony when a baby is blessed and welcomed into the Church family. Parents and 'godparents' promise to bring up the child in the Christian faith. Adults may be baptised; they make their own decision to follow Jesus.

The Hebrew Bible, written in the Hebrew language, contains the thirty-nine books of the Jewish scriptures. The first five books are called the Torah. They are written on a scroll. The first part of the Christian Bible known as the 'Old Testament' is the Hebrew Bible.

A Sikh baby is brought to the gurdwara. During the thanksgiving ceremony, the Guru Granth Sahib is opened at random. The first letter of the passage on the left-hand page is the first letter of the name that will be chosen for the child.

TALKING TOGETHER YEAR 6
KEY STAGE 2

Simran. We can tell if it's a girl or a boy because Sikh girls have Kaur after their name and boys have Singh. So I'm Simran Kaur. It comes from a famous story about one of our Gurus, Guru Gobind Singh. I'd better ask my Dad tonight, to make sure I get it right.

Olivia. Let's ask Himmat if there's anything special about Hindu names. Himmat, how did you get your name?

Himmat. Well my name means 'courage'. The priest said my name should begin with H. So all the family thought of names beginning with H and it was my Auntie who decided on Himmat. In Hindu families it's usually a special aunt who chooses. My sister's name, Asha, means 'hope'.

Olivia. That's nice. Maryam, is it right that Muslims can be called Muhammad after your Prophet Muhammad?

Maryam. Yes. Two of my uncles are called Muhammad. And my father is Isa which is Jesus in Arabic.

Christopher. Really? A Muslim called Jesus?

Maryam. Of course. Your Jesus is a prophet in our holy book too, you know, in the Qur'an.

Christopher. No, I didn't know that.

Maryam. Why do so many people use Jesus or Christ or God as a swear word?

Christopher. I don't know. But my Mum and Dad get really upset by it. Do Muslims ever swear using the word Allah or Muhammad?

Maryam. I've never heard it. But I'd be shocked if I did. Muslims, out of respect, say the words "Peace be upon him" when they say Prophet Muhammad's name. I'm surprised there isn't more fuss about people using God and Christ as swear words. What do you think Judith?

Judith. I suppose it started as something like "Oh God help me" – maybe people really meant it. Do you believe that Allah and God are the same God?

Maryam. Yes I do. Allah is the Arabic word for God. Same God.

Christopher. I'm not so sure. We certainly all have different ideas about God. Simran, is there a Sikh name for God?

Simran. Satnam is one of our words for God.

Many Hindu names are the names of gods or goddesses from the Hindu scriptures. Often a priest will make a horoscope (according to the position of the stars at the time of the birth), to help find a name which will bring blessings to the child. Usually there is no special naming ceremony. In the child's first or third year, Hindu families may have a ceremony called 'mundan' when the child's hair is cut for the first time; it is all shaved off.

Soon after a Muslim baby is born, the words of the Adhan prayer are whispered into the baby's ear. It begins "Allahu Akbar" which means "God is great." The naming ceremony usually takes place at home and most names given come from the Qur'an, the Muslim holy book.

TALKING TOGETHER YEAR 6
KEY STAGE 2

Christopher. What do you mean 'one of your words for God'?

Simran. Well, like you call God Almighty or Lord or Father, we have different names for God. Another one is Waheguru.

Maryam. We have 99 names for God in the Qur'an! In fact if you count my prayer beads, you'll find there are 99 beads. Each one is for a word to describe God, like Kind or Mighty.

Judith. What about all the gods and goddesses the Hindus worship? My Dad says they're idols and Jews aren't allowed to worship idols. It says so in the Second Commandment in the Torah. We don't have statues in our synagogues.

Himmat. I wish people wouldn't say that. It's not really like that. We do believe in one God. We can't see God but we believe God is everywhere. We call God 'Bhagwan'.

Judith. So what about all the statues of gods and goddesses in your temples then?

Himmat. Well, God is far greater than any one of those. God is so great he can't be described by any one word really. Each god and goddess is a way of seeing God, of helping us to understand a part of what God is like.

Christopher. We say we can understand about God by following Jesus and his teaching. We believe that Jesus is God's Son, so if we look at Jesus, that is how we can know God.

Himmat. Maybe that's a bit similar, though we don't say that any one person is God's son. We believe that God is in every human and every creature and all of life. We are all part of God's creation, to be honoured and respected.

Judith. Interesting. In the story of creation in our Torah it says that humans were 'made in the image of God'. And by the way two of our names for God are Elohim and Adonai!

Olivia. It seems to me that if there is such a thing as God, there has to be only one God. Nothing else would make sense.

Himmat. I think it has to be the same God. Our priest explains it this way. "Think of your aunt. You call her Auntie. Her children call her Mum. Her sister and her mum call her Romila, our neighbour calls her Mrs Patel. They all call her different names and think of her in different ways, but she is still the same person.

Olivia. Mmm... makes you think! Well Christopher, I hope the baptism goes OK. Tell us about it on Monday. Yes?

These are Muslim prayer beads. The Merciful, The Compassionate, The Mighty and The Wise are four of the 99 names for God in the Qur'an. Muslims can say each of the names moving their fingers along the beads as they pray.

A statue of a goddess or a god in a Hindu temple and on shrines in Hindu homes, is called 'murti'. A murti is not worshipped instead of God. A Hindu may worship and pray to a murti as a way of coming closer to God (called Bhagwan). God who is in all of creation and yet also beyond everything.

TALKING TOGETHER YEAR 6 KEY STAGE 2

NAMES. Names are very personal. They identify who we are. There is nothing more likely to start a fight than to call somebody a bad name! Many names come from religious scriptures. There is a book called 'God has many names'. Religious people do not all agree about God. Indeed some wars are fought because of disagreements about God, which is sad when most religions teach that God is a God of Love and Peace. Are we all talking about the same God but calling God by different names?

- Some religious people say no. They may sincerely believe their way to God (as they understand God) is the only true way and they want everyone else to believe the same as they do.
- Some religious people say yes. They may believe that people follow different paths towards the same God or the same Truth and whichever religion you sincerely follow, that's alright.
- Other people do not belong to any religion. Some may believe there is no God. Some people may not have given it much thought. Some people may have their own ideas about God which don't fit in with any particular religion.

What do you know? What do you think?

1. What is a Christian 'baptism'?
2. What do you know about how you got your name. Who chose it? Does it have a meaning? Was there a special ceremony?
3. Describe any other naming ceremony you have been to.
4. Why do Christians and Jews and Muslims have many of the same names? (They may vary slightly – like Mary, Miriam, Maryam.)
5. How do Sikhs choose names for their children?
6. a) Why do you think that Muslims whisper the Adhan prayer to their new-born child? b) Write a prayer (or a poem) of your own, to welcome a new baby into the world.
7. In the Bible, in Exodus chapter 20, the second Commandment says 'You shall not take the name of God in vain.' Why do you think people swear using God's name? How do Christopher's parents feel about it? What do you think?
8. Think of two questions you would like to ask a priest or other religious leader about belief in God.

Now what?... Find out more!

- Origins and meanings of our own names: our first names and family names. Connections with religion, places or jobs.
- Do our names cause us any problems? If our names show our identity? our religion? our nationality? our social class or caste? Pronunciation or spelling difficulties for others?
- Ceremonies for babies in different religions.
- Names for God: sacred letters and symbols for the name of God. Is it helpful to think of God in different roles? As Almighty... Creator... Father... Spirit... Love... Healer... Protector...
- Sacred prayers and hymns on the name of God.
- Blasphemy and irreverence: why does it matter? What do the religions have to say about it?

SYMBOLS FOR GOD

Nobody can draw a picture or make a statue of God. Nobody can say what God looks like. If someone says "God", what do you think of? A prayer? A church? Music? Something beautiful in creation? A feeling of peace – or love? Here are four symbols which are ways to represent God.

Christians think of God as being the 'Trinity' or three-in-one. They talk of 'God the Father' who created the world. 'God the Son', Jesus, who came into the world to show the way to God. And 'God the Holy Spirit' who is the invisible 'breath' of God in the world. These are not three different gods, they are three aspects of one God. Just as a triangle has three sides but is one triangle.

OM or AUM is the sacred sound for the Hindu idea of God. This is how it is written in Sanskrit, the ancient language of the Hindu scriptures. It is uttered slowly and deeply with great reverence. (Say it like home, very slowly, without the h.)

This is the Sikh symbol for God. It means, in the Panjabi language: IK ONKAR – 'One God'. The morning prayer, the Mool Mantra, begins: 'There is but One God Whose Name is Truth...'
